THE TREATY OF WASHINGTON.

LONDON, June 30.—In the House of Lords, on Monday, Granville moved a resolution expressing regret that the Queen had been advised to appoint a Commissioner to Washington a body [illegible] for the country, by mutuality in which it conflicts with the sovereignty, dignity, and independence of the United States without authority, and without consulting Parliament, and which, if carried into effect, would be a violation of the Queen's prerogative in England.

Granville said he was not afraid with the composition of Lord Clarendon was entirely opposed to the resolution.

Lord Stanley said, if the Commissioners in the House of Commons, Mr. Gladstone hoped that every one would be fixed for discussion of the treaty at Washington.

The Duke of Marlborough said the question of a land in dispute between the United States and Canada, and that this thing by ballot was proved a [illegible] was other, and in 1872 after North, Gladstone, and Russell said, all [illegible]

THE PARIS SIEGE.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Cabinet meeting, to-day, was attended by all members except Attorney-General Akerman, who is still at his home in Georgia. It was not even minded to, the principal time being devoted to the consideration of Minister Corean affairs under the lead of Secretary Boutwell, the President not so special instructions to give to the department of the Navy on this subject. It is regretted that Commodore Rodgers had been compelled to take such severe measures, and that, perhaps, wholly perverted commercial relations with the Corean; but, from the airgram received, no opinion further that this was expressed. The President left for Long Branch to-night, and Secretary Boutwell will start for Groton on Saturday.

THE MOBILE COLLECTORSHIP.

The President, to-day, wrote through the bench, which circuit has heretofore contained very other; and appointed ex-Senator Warner Collector of Customs at Mobile, in spite of the persistent opposition of Senator Pomeroy and Representative Hale, who, throughout the contest over the Antonia affair, believed that the friends of Warner, in Congress, would be unable to carry the nomination through the Senate. The contest was one which was in dispute, but Spencer constantly was right as a Senator to dictate the appointment, and so strong has this claim of a Senator been that there was great reluctance to ignore it in this case. Two unsuccessful attempts were made in Mobile, all of Spencer's selection. It speedily appeared that the interests of the government had been closed immediately, and, finally, the statements of Spencer determined the President to not be longer wait for the government and the [illegible] Warner.

Another New Departure.

Independent Political Meeting at Oskaloosa.

Nomination of Candidates.

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, June 29.

On the 30th day of May last a Reform Mass Convention met in Union Hall, and organized by adopting the following platform:

Resolved, 1. That the liberty and equality of the rights of all men, black and white, are the foundation stones of our Republican form of government, and that any and all attempts to abridge or deny the enjoyment of the elective franchise to any class of our citizens, on account of their color, is a violation of the principles of our Republican form of government, and a crime against the rights of man.

2. That we demand the support of the government of the United States, and the protection of the rights of its citizens, by the enactment of such laws as may be necessary to secure to the citizens of the United States, without distinction of color, the rights guaranteed to them by the Constitution of the United States, and the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States thereon.

3. That we demand the enactment of such laws as will secure to the people of Iowa the right of voting, a fair vote, and the security of the ballot, which has been grossly violated in the past, and which, if not corrected, will place the government of the State in the hands of a minority, and a fraudulent one at that. We, as Democrats, have no fear of the result of a fair vote, and we demand the enactment of such laws as will secure the rights of the people, and the purity of the ballot box, and the security of the rights of the people, and the security of the ballot box, and the security of the rights of the people, and the security of the ballot box, and the security of the rights of the people, and the security
